Riverton's tree canopy covered 25.8% of the city in 2025, down from 31.4% in 2016.

Over ten years the city removed 7,560 street trees and planted 4,370.

Eastside fell from 22% to 14%, and ran 9 degrees hotter than Northgate.

The trees are worth $6.2 million a year; a program of 1,500 trees a year costs $2.1 million.

It would return the canopy to 30% by 2040.
